(Questions 1, 2, 3 and 4)

Surprised by joy – impatient as the Wind
I turned to share the transport – Oh! with whom
But Thee, deep buried in the silent tomb,
That spot which no vicissitude can find ?
Love, faithful love, recalled thee to my mind –
But how could I forget thee ? Through what power,
Even for the least division of an hour,
Have I been so beguiled as to be blind
To my most grievous loss ! – That thought's return
Was the worst pang that sorrow ever bore,
Save one, one only, when I stood forlorn,
Knowing my heart's best treasure was no more;
That neither present time, nor years unborn
Could to my sight that heavenly face restore.

OR

Read the following prose passage and answer the questions given below it.

(Questions 1, 2, 3 and 4)

Recently I attended a conference on karma, a notion that is almost synonymous in some circles with whatever is Indian or Hindu. Brahminical texts had it, the Buddhists had it, the Jainas had it. But when I looked at hundreds of Kannada tales, I couldn't find a single tale that used karma as a motif or motive. Yet when their children made a mess, their repertoire of abuse included, 'You are my karma!' When Harper (1959) and others after him reported that many Indian villagers didn't know much about reincarnation, such a discrepancy was attributed to caste, education, etc. But the 2,000 Kannada tales, collected by me and others over the past twenty years, were told by Brahmins, Jainas (both of whom use karma in their explanations elsewhere quite readily), and by other communities as well. What is worse, Sheryl Daniel (1983) independently found that her Tamil village alternately used karma and talaividī ('headwriting') as explanations for the events around them. The two notions are inconsistent with each other. Karma implies the self's past determining the present, an iron chain of cause and consequence, an ethic of responsibility. Talaividī is one's fate inscribed arbitrarily at one's birth on one's forehead; the inspection has no relation to one's prior actions; usually in such explanations (and folk tales about them) past lives are not even part of the scheme.

1. What fact puzzled the writer ?
 - (A) The belief that 'Karma' was a universally accepted idea
 - (B) The orientalist scholars said it was a truly Indian concept
 - (C) That 'Karma' was a word of abuse
 - (D) That Kannada folk tales did not deal with it
2. He argues that the reason for this was
 - (A) the influence of the Buddhist religion
 - (B) caste and education
 - (C) not religion at all
 - (D) the influence of other religions in India
3. What is 'the ethic of responsibility' in the passage ?
 - (A) The moral concern of the individual
 - (B) The past as determining the present
 - (C) The individual's responsibility towards others
 - (D) The belief that everything is chance
